Matrimonial Aspirant Flooded With Answers to "Express" Ad.

A large gathering of the residents of Canon City, both white and colored assembled at Mount Olive Baptist church on South Fifth street Sunday evening to witness the marriage of two of Canon City's well known colored citizens, J. E. Yeiser and B. H. Parham.

Long before 8 o'clock the little edifice was filled to overflowing by the friends of the contracting parties, some of them being from other towns. Promptly at the appointed hour the wedding party arrived at the church, the bride-elect on the arms of the best man and the groom under the escort of the bridesmaids. They marched to the altar to the strains of "Oh Promise Me," played by Miss Beattie McQueen.

Mr. Yeiser was attired in a suit of conventional black and his bride, Mrs. Emma Smith, wore a dress of white voile, trimmed with embroidery lace. Mr. Parham wore a black suit, and his bride, Mrs. Beattie Gray of Denver, was gowned in white silk, with the waist in aid with gold and white satin.

The ring service was used by the pastor of the church in the celebration of the nuptial ceremony, which was most impressive. After the wedding service the contracting parties, with their attendants and intimate friends, proceeded to the home of Mr. Yeiser, where an elaborate dinner was served to all. As the party left the church Mendelssohn's wedding march was played. The dinner was the occasion of the utmost merriment and with its vanda and speech-making, was a pleasant affair for all privileged to be present. At a late hour the guests left for their homes, declaring that the Yeiser-Smith, Parham-Gray weddings were events that will be long remembered by the colored people of Canon City.

The Dallas Express received the following letter, along with announcement, from Mr. Parham:

Canon City, Colo., April 26, 1919.

Gentlemen:

Please accept this as an expression of my sincere appreciation of the results obtained from my advertisement in your paper on February 22nd past, in which I advertised for a wife. I received over 1500 inquiries from all over Texas and Colorado, and finally married a lady of Dallas who was living in Tennessee.

She has proved to be a worthy companion and I most heartily thank the Dallas Express for their assistance in helping to secure this worth while help.

Please send me your paper for one year, and oblige.

Yours truly,

B. H. PARHAM.

MRS. C. J. WALKER URGES THE PURCHASE OF VICTORY BONDS.

Mr. W. E. Kintz,

Dallas Express,

Dallas, Texas.

Dear Sir:

I take the advantage of your valuable paper to urge upon my agents and customers the importance of purchasing Victory Bonds at this time. To my mind it cannot be too strongly emphasized that our boys have done their bit: brought home victory to our great cause and have finished the job, leaving it clearly up to the great army back home to make the victory complete and go over the top on this side of the water.

We are loyal and patriotic dor-ing every stage of the great struggle and because of that loyalty we will go down in history as one element of American citizenship that did not shrink or balk when duty called.

Let us in this last campaign subscribe so promptly and liberally when called upon by the campaign workers that there will be no uncertainty as to where the Negro stands in these, the closing days of this great crisis.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

MADAM C. J. WALKER.

A. ADAMS,
President and General Manager of Adams Express and Transfer Company, Dallas, Texas.

The subject of this sketch, Mr. A. Adams was born in Robertson County, near Calvert, Texas, Nov. 24, 1875, and is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. James Adams. His early boyhood days were spent on the farm of his father where he learned the habit of thrift and industry. He came to Dallas, about 18 years ago and sought employment in a furniture establishment, known as the Haverly Furniture Company. He soon became an expert in handling and packing furniture and was a trusted employee of this firm for more than eight years. Mr. Adams possesses a somewhat unassuming disposition, yet frank and square in his dealings. He has many friends among black and white in and around Dallas, when approached by a representative of the Dallas Express he had the following to say concerning the establishment of his company:

The History of the Company

The refusal of a raise of two dollars per week on a ten dollar wage, led almost to the establishment of the firm of the Adams Express and Transfer Company. While serving as an employee of a large furniture establishment in this city eight years, as a packer also to arrange and handle furniture, the thought occurred to me that some day, by using common sense and economy, and by the spirit of industry, that I would be the head of my business affairs, and become both employer and employee. Had the two dollars been advanced as I had asked, I would be today working for wages, and asking still for a raise. I bought a horse and an express wagon and set to work, endeavoring to make a beginning toward the company that we call the Adams Express & Transfer Company. When I think over the refusal of the two dollar raise, I am brought face to face with the history and tragedy of a dollar, and what power there is in the purchasing value and the great value of the American dollar when rightly used. The refusal led to the establishment of almost directly to it. Now it is a great stretch from two small dollars to a business that reaches up into the thousands, and this statement is not made in a boastful spirit, but it is made for the young men of the race who may use their hard earnings with care, and to learn a lesson of thrift and economy, for this is the road to success.

The firm, Adams Express & Transfer Company refused five years ago the neat little sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000) which is a comparison of a raise of my wages to two dollars per week. Young men where there is a will and dogged determination, there is an open gate to a way. We are not to despise the day of little things. Shall we as a race wait for business or shall we go after it? Let us open up today, let us make a start, and when you start come by the Adams Express & Transfer Co., you will find us in full operation at 3225 Ross avenue.

All persons wishing packing, storing, and hauling will do well to consult our prices before making engagements elsewhere. A. Adams, President and General Manager.

Our motto: Business first, and pleasure last.

Work, work, with a plan in view, count the cost, and the one sensible and over persistent question: "In which direction does success lie?" then you will find the way to the Adams Express & Transfer Company at 3225 Ross Avenue. We are always ready, willing and waiting to serve you. Give us your business and we shall give you satisfaction. ## There Is Nothing Better Nor Nothing Just As Good.

The warning has been sounded not by doctors alone, but coming from the pulpit as well. The American women are fast destroying their beauty with hot combs. Bear in mind that every reputable doctor will tell you, that you cannot keep hair on your head and continue the use of hot combs. The hot comb not only destroys the natural oil which nature provides, but leaves the scalp feverous and in such a condition that it has been said that it had its effect upon the mental power. In order that you may keep the scalp and hair in a healthy condition, you must not disturb nature and that is exactly what you do every time you apply the hot comb. We put you a way in order that you may have straight long luxurious hair without injury to your health and hair. If you don't know this, it is time for you to convince yourself of this fact. It is better that you investigate Kap-o-line before buying another hair preparation than buy another hair preparation and investate Kap-o-line later, as it is better that you buy Kap-o-line and be satisfied.

THE KAP-O-LINE WAY TO MAKE KNOTTY KINKY HAIR STRAIGHT EASY AND SIMPLE.

Before applying Kap-o-line, the head should be thoroughly shampooed with Kap-o-line Shampoo, this puts the hair and scalp in a clean antiseptic condition. Then apply snow white Kap-o-line as you fall asleep rubbing well into the scalp, in the morning give the hair a good stiff brushing apply Kap-o-line every night for six nights brushing every morning thoroughly at the end of the six nights shampoo the hair again and then continue the treatment of Kap-o-line every other day which keeps the hair straight and in good condition at all times to come. If you have not looked yourself over lately after six nights of this treatment, you will see for yourself the most beautiful transfigure of yourself, a living picture that you will admire, gummy, the kind of hair you love to touch. Just such hair you are promised once you start the use of Kap-o-line.

Price of KAP-O-LINE, 35 Cents; KAP-O-LINE SHAMPOO, 50 Cents, sold by most druggists or mailed to any address upon receipt of price and your druggist's name. Manufactured by
